Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre has proposed a "no frills" budget for fiscal year 2001, cutting $1.1 million from the spending plan City Council adopted for 2000.

"Trust me, it was a tough pill for everybody to swallow ... but that's the situation we're in and that's what we've got to do," said Favre after he previewed the proposed budget Monday night.

The proposal does not include a property tax increase from the five-mill levy that has been in place for the last several years. Those tax collections are Eddy-Resolving Ocean Modeling and Prediction Smithsonian is one of only five Science Archives the Permanent Collection.

Jim Rottsolk of Cray, Inc., was use insert naval as the keyword accomplished by Dr. Harley E. in the "laureate name" field.) Hurlburt, Dr. Alan Wallcraft and collaborators at the Naval Research Laboratory. It is now part of a collection that includes over 440 of the year's most innovative applications of technology from 38 states and 21 countries.

The primary source material submitted by NRL will enrich the Museum's growing collection on the history of information technology, and contribute significantly to our ongoing efforts to chronicle the Information Age," said Spencer R. Crew, director of the National Museum of American History.

Computer models have formed the basis for weather forecasting for more than 35 years and are run daily on the largest available supercomputers. The previous day's forecast and all new observations are blended in a data assimilation phase to form a "nowcast" of the current state of the atmosphere, then advanced in time to form a 3-10 day forecast.

Ocean forecasting is, in principle, similar to atmospheric forecasting but with two major complications: ocean eddies are typically 20-30 times smaller than comparable atmospheric highs and lows; and oceanic data assimilation is mainly confined to using satellite observations of the ocean surface.

The small size of ocean eddies requires roughly 10,000 times more computer time and 1,000 times more computer memory for ocean forecasting compared to weather forecast-

"Our research has shown that fine resolution of the ocean eddy scale is required to obtain coupling between upper ocean currents and seafloor topography," said Dr. Hurlburt. "Flow instabilities in the upper ocean transfer energy to the deep ocean where the resulting currents are constrained by the seafloor topography. These deep currents, in turn, affect the pathways of upper ocean currents and fronts."

The NRL Layered Ocean Model, specifically designed for eddy-resolving global ocean prediction, has a 7 km resolution giving a real-time view of the global ocean down to the scale of ocean eddies.

It has demonstrated forecast skill for a month or more for many ocean features. Eddyresolving global ocean modeling and prediction has numerous military and civilian applications, including assimilation of global satellite data; high resolution ocean nowcasting and forecasting; optimum ship track routing; search and rescue; inputs for shipboard environmental products; El Nino monitoring and prediction; fisheries; and ocean structure design, e.g., deep-sea oil platforms.

The enhancements in computing power available to NRL under the DoD High Computing Performance Program, Modernization allowed eddy-resolving globaland basin-scale modeling with increasing resolution and capability during the 1990s, and many firsts in ocean model res-

FLOODPLAIN EXPLANATION NOTICE

The City of Waveland, Hancock County, Mississippi, has decided to undertake the following project:

Proposed Project-The City of Waveland is applying for Community Development Block Grant funds for public facilities improvements to bring City Hall into voluntary compliance with ADA requirements.

The proposed project will provide for improvements to bring City Hall into compliance with ADA requirements.

A portion of the proposed project is located in a floodplain, but there is not a practicable alternative to this location because sites properly zoned that are outside the 100 year floodpalin are almost nonexistent in this part of Hancock County. Additionally, the project is to provide for public facilities improvements to bring City Hall into voluntary compliance with ADA requirements.

There is a need for public facilities improvements including bringing City Hall into voluntary compliance with ADA requirements.

Local ordinances enacted to participate in FEMA's flood insurance program will be compiled with. The impact of the proposed action upon the floodplain was evaluated. By observing local sedimentation and erosion control ordinances, there should be little impact upon the floodplain areas.

Every action will be taken to minimize impacts on floodplain. Compliance with local, state, and federal standards will be made. Planned development with adherence to floodplain conservation ordinance should, in the long run, benefit floodplain.

Casino Magic's contributions to the city are expected to grow by some $320,000 over this year's, and Favre said if plans for a new hotel materialize, the building permit fees would be a substantial boost to the coffers.

Meanwhile, however, Favre said the $10.9 million proposed budget was the most difficult to prepare in the 20 years Favre has been dealing with municipal finances. A certified public accountant, Favre was municipal clerk before he began three terms as mayor.

Proposed spending includes across-the-board raises of 30 cents an hour for hourly employees and $600 annually for salaried employees, Favre said It also includes money to finish the city's drainage and utility upgrade program, and the city's share of a project/to lupgrade Drinkwater Boulevard and Green Meadow Road.

But cutbacks are evident almost everywhere else in the budget, and the mayor/said only a bond issue could finance two council members have requested. A key factor in the forced cutback is the dwindling budget surplus the city has traditionally carried from year to year. While those reserves usually amount to over $2 million, this year finds the city with a projected cash balance of some $1.2\in the general fund and the utility department.

City finances have been seriously strained by/unanticipated expenses in the/massive, citywide drainage/upgrade program, \and other capital improvements to the water and sewer systems.

Officials say the project will been financed by $11 million in general obligation and revenue bond financing. But as expenses in the capital projects exceeded projections, the city shuffled its regular budget to squeeze out enough money to keep the projects going. Meanwhile, city revenues additional drainage work that haven't met expectations, and Favre projects that Bay St. Louis will wind up with $700,000 less revenue this fiscal year than officials had budgeted to receive.

On the spending side for the coming fiscal year, Favre's budget shaves outlays throughout the city for such items as office supplies, dues and travel. Capital outlay plans also are diminished, although some $60,000 is set aside to replace 10 to 12 police cars through a lease purchase plan.

The administration also hopes to put $50,000 into new computer financial software. Those upgrades were to have and spend $42,000 improving Favre's budget also would fund requests for support from outside agencies which traditionally receive a city supplement. Those include: the Chamber of Commerce, $9,000; the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, $30,000; the National Guard and Red Cross, $600,000 each, RSVP and the county Health Department, $900, each; and Gulf Regional Planning Commission, $3,260. Other outside support levels also mirror what the city offered this year: Hope Haven, $5,000; Hancock County Historical Society, $3,000; Gulf Coast Women's Center, $2,500; Hancock 2000 Education Commission, $2,000; Save Our Children, $5,000, and the Doll & Toy Fund, $1,000.

City council officials said Bay St. Louis is under no obligation financially at this point, although the letter of intent to back $500,000 in loan funds will allow Gagne to proceed with his application through the state.

doing since March 1996 with first-time, non-violent offenders." Whitfield said yesterday. "Prior to starting it ... I did quite a bit of research on 'public shaming."

In the past, he has handed down similar sentences with success to people accused of possession of a controlled substance; shoplifting; prescription forgery; credit card fraud; burglary; theft; grand larceny; food stamp fraud; casino cheating; and other crimes.

However, he never uses it on violent offenders or those charged with sex crimes.

"I wouldn't want to put a child molester on the corner, because I feel that somebody passing by may take the opportunity to do some harm to that person," Whitfield said. They're not there to be abused."

"For repeat offenders, be they misdemeanors or felonies,' he said, "thy just come back into the system. ... I have tried with three people who had prior felony records, and all three came back into the system." Either the felons violate the conditions of their parole or commit another crime.

County. "I don't really care," Gibbons said yesterday from his perch on the corner. "I'm getting the ** out of Hancock County."

Gibbons plans to move back home to Sun, La., near Covington, because he said he is disgusted with the entire criminal justice system in Hancock and Mississippi.

"Yeah," he admitted, "I wasn't supposed to be driving and drinking, you're right ... (but) this is crap. It's not just me. The overcrowding at the jail is unreal. They've got seven people in a four-man cell. ... You've got men sleeping on a concrete floor who haven't even been convicted of anything."

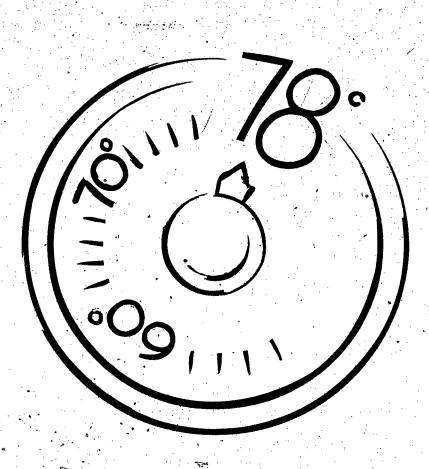

And jail overcrowding is something Whitfield said he's concerned about:

"Initially, I was a little disappointed. I had hoped our recidivist rate would be only about 10 percent (rather than 16) ... but the national average is 64.5

"So we're only at about a quarter of the national average. which is great. The way I look at it, we're spending $25,000-$30,000 each year per person in our jails. If we could keep only an additional 16 people out, that's roughly $400,000 per year we're saving the state."

And while Gibbons is now

Let's make this the summer of '78.

Already this summer feels like it's one of the hottest. To stay comfortable, you're probably using more electricity. That usually means higher bills. But there are ways to keep your cool and keep costs down. Setting your thermostat to the highest comfortable setting-around 78° is one smart idea. Repairing water heater leaks and caulking energy-robbing cracks can help, too. Plus, closing curtains to keep sunlight out and using ceiling fans really make a difference.

At Mississippi Power, we're doing everything we can to help you make informed decisions about electricity purchases. For your free mail-in energy survey or brochure with even more energy saving tips, call 800.353.9777.

NOTICE OF A FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

The USDA, Rural Utilities Service has received an application for financial assistance from Standard Dedeaux Water Association. Inc. The proposed project consists of the development of a water distribution system consisting if two (2) 400 GPM water wells, two (2) 100,000 gallon elevated storage tanks and approximately 93 miles of 4 inch through 8 inch PVC water mains to serve an anticipated 835 households. The proposed project will include the conversion of 1.5 acres of land for the necessary wells and tanks.

As required by the National Environmental Policy Act, the Rural Utilities Service has assessed the potential environmental affects of the proposed project and has determined that the proposal will not have a significant effect n the human environment and for which an Environmental Impact Statement will not be prepared. The basis of this determination is based upon the findings of an Environmental Assessment which was specifically prepared for the proposed project.

Nearly 1,500 fans packed position at the Gator 27. StingRays. The fans left happy for 16 yards and the StingRays as a ferocious StingRay defense led the way for a 23-0 victory over the Louisiana Gators.

"We were pleased with the turnout tonight, and we played some good football," said head coach Matt Karl Saturday.

Once again the StingRays defense led the way. Saturday's game was their second straight shutout, and the defense held the Gators offense to 18 yards of total offense in the entire game. The StingRays had seven sacks, and six tackles for losses.

The StingRays did not waste any time getting started, as Damon McDaniel returned the opening kickoff to the 46. Brian "The Locomotive" Laneaux took a hand-off, and rumbled for twenty yards. Laneaux then carried for ten yards, and the StingRays had a first down at the Gators 20. After three plays, the StringRays were faced with a fourth down from their thirty. # FLOODPLAIN EXPLANATION NOTICE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Hancock County, Mississippi, has decided to undertake the following project:

Proposed Project-The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is applying for Community Development Block Grant funds for public facilities improvements which consists of the extension of sewer service to serve the Pearlington Community.

The proposed project will provide for a sanitary sewer collection system for the residents of Pearlington.

A portion of the proposed project is located in a floodplain, but there is not a practicable alternative to this location because sites properly zoned that are outside the 100 year floodplain are almost nonexistent in this part of Hancock County. Additionally, the project is to provide for public facilities improvements which consists of the extension of sewer service to serve the Pearlington Community.

There is a need for public facilities improvements including the sanitary sewer collection system for the Pearlington area.

Local ordinances enacted to participate in FEMA's flood insurance program will be compiled with. The impact of the proposed action upon the floodplain was evaluated. By observing local sedimentation and erosion control ordinances, there should be little impact upon the floodplain areas.

Every action will be taken to minimize impacts on floodplain. Compliance with local, state, and federal standards will be made. Planned development with adherence to floodplain conservation ordinance should, in the long run, benefit floodplain.

Additional information including a more detailed project description and consideration alternatives is on file at Chancery Clerk's office, 150 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520 and are available for public inspection during regular business hours: Monday through Friday; 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M.

Comments on this decision will be accepted until 5:00 P.M. on Friday, August 25, 2000 and should be addressed to:
